

Corporate Tables Policies:

A limited amount of table space is made available to companies wishing to promote products that are of interest to the fannish community. These tables, known as "Corporate Tables," are a subset of the tables available for clubs.

Product may not be sold at a Corporate Table, nor may a Corporate Table take orders for delivery at a later time, although promotional merchandise may be given away.

Corporate tables must be reserved through the "Corporate Tables Liaison." Persons tending Corporate Tables must have a valid convention membership badge prominently worn, and are requested to obtain their convention membership in product trade: One such membership will be requested per half table, and will be granted in compensation for donation of company's original product. Such memberships are considered to be free of charge, but the company must donate product whose fair-market-value is equal to or greater than the at-the-door membership rate. All product donated will be used as awards for volunteers.

Corporate Tables must be reserved at least 4 weeks prior to the convention.

The Chair can request Corporate Tables for groups or organizations who will add to the convention or membership experience. If the request comes after the normal deadline, the Corporate Table Liaison will try their best to find space for these tables.

The company that the table is assigned to may not sell, sublet, or assign the table space.

The Corporate Table Liaison, with guidance by the Exec Team, must first approve any item that cannot sit on the tabletop or within the limits of the table space. Any items restricted by other policies or rules of the convention are similarly restricted.

The Corporate Table Liaison has authority to refuse any group, implementing this policy with the guidance of the Exec Team.
